

THE BLUEPRINT OF BUSINESS

The Archetypes of Entrepreneurship

A clear breakdown of how founders are grouped by what they build, why they construct it, and how they run operations.

Local Support & Freedom Models

1. Small Business

Runs self-funded, local enterprises that directly serve communities. Think bakeries, salons, or physical agencies.

Primary Goal: Stable, independent long-term income, not exponential global scaling.

2. Lifestyle Ventures

Constructs a business framework designed entirely around desired life choices. Often comprises freelancers, creators, or consultants.

Primary Goal: Complete location and schedule freedom. Stays small by choice.

Corporate & Replicated Models

01. Intrapreneurship

Acts as an internal startup founder inside an established corporation. Leverages existing brand power and assets to innovate. Example: Google's Gmail project.

02. Imitative Models

Takes a proven, validated business model and replicates it in a new geographic market. Offers lower product risk, though execution competition is higher.

GROUP C: HYPER-SCALE & DISRUPTION

Startup & Innovator

Scalable Startup

Designed for rapid compounding and rapid scale using venture capital leverage. Features extreme failure risks, but offers massive global market capture if successful (e.g., SaaS, FinTech, AI).

Innovative Entrepreneur

Driven primarily by deep invention and intensive R&D. Builds entirely new technological horizons that did not exist before (e.g., SpaceX, biotech ventures).

Impact, Speed & Acquisitions

Social

Prioritizes measurable positive impact along with profit. Metric focus is sustainability plus social/ecological benefit.

Serial

Launches multiple companies in sequence. Excels at the 0-to-1 launch phase, but often hands off mature daily operations.

Buyer / Hustler

Buys existing profitable businesses instead of starting from zero. Uses debt leverage (e.g., SBA loans) to scale.

The Hybrid Profile Reality

- Multi-Archetype Integration

Very few founders fall strictly into one silo. High-performing founders naturally combine archetypes depending on their scale and personal lifestyle objectives.

- Examples in Action

Elon Musk: Represents a fusion of Innovative technical design, Scalable Startup growth, and Serial creation.

Local Gym Owner: Integrates a Small Business framework with a personal Lifestyle alignment.
